

Palace sure Estrada coming back after HK surgery

By Juliet Labog-Jardine

MALACANANG (newsday) reiterated its assurance that ousted President Joseph Estrada would come back to the country after undergoing knee surgery in Hong Kong.

Kamela is set to leave tomorrow after the Sandiganbayan anti-graft court, which is trying him for plunder, allowed him to have a medical treatment in a Hong Kong hospital from

Dec. 15 to Jan. 15.

Press Secretary Ignacio Bano diagnosed the position of Ex-President Gen. Luis "Chino" Binsan and chief government prosecutor Gen. Vilma Igancio that Kamela would seek political asylum or evade during the charges of plunder, a non-bailable crime punishable by death.

Bano said Kamela's understanding with the Bureau of Investigation and the Hong Kong government was clear assurance that he would return to the country after his medical treatment.

"There is no chance the former president will not come back to the Philippines as alleged by Governor Binsan," Bano said in a radio interview.

'SADDEST'

4th Christmas in jail for Erap

By Arns and N. Nozari

IT'S A bleak Christmas for former President Joseph Estrada. Speaking through his spokesperson, Edgardo Ordoñez, Estrada said his fourth Christmas in jail was made more painful by the recent death of son Fernando Poe Jr., Estrada's buddy of 40 years.

"This is one of my saddest Christmas," Ordoñez said, a former Magistrate 3rd congressional district congressman, quoted Estrada as saying.

"He (Poe) was like a brother to me and a very close friend," Estrada said.

Kamela also complained of being in pain, caused by his arthritic knees and slipped disc. He is set to go to Hong Kong tomorrow for a knee replacement operation.

When he delivered a midnight apology for his last Tuesday Kamela said he was gripping hard at the mattress to keep himself from falling.

"I was in pain the whole time, but I tried not to show it," said Estrada, who claims to be unable to stand for a long period of time.

Kamela said he also missed his sickly mother, Mary Binsan. He had visited her before proceeding to Poe's wake.

But Kamela said he might ask for a new Christmas (although so he could spend more time with his mother before proceeding to Hong Kong).

He said his mother was one reason why there was no basis to allegations that he would not return.

"I'm no flight risk," he said in reaction to the warning aired by Ex-President Gen. Lito "Chino" Binsan and several prosecutors that Kamela would no longer return to the country should he be allowed to leave.

He also downplayed talk that he was behind a new destabilization plot. "Why is it that I'm always being blamed when there are reports of a coup?" said Estrada, who was also linked to the Calabiao military last year.

He recalled an uproar that there were plans to put up a military junta, with Poe's wife Susan Binsan being installed as a figurehead.

"Matahiyuan (That cannot happen)," he said of Binsan, who had repeatedly appealed to Poe's fans not to injure politics in his wake or burial.

He said Christmas eve would have him spending time with his close relatives, including son, Jiggay Estrada, who was set to visit at his new home in Tagaytay, Rizal, yesterday afternoon.

Connected by the legions, the young Estrada said he was feeling his father's pain, having spent one Christmas with the former President in jail. Father and son are facing plunder and perjury charges before the Sandiganbayan.

"It was so sad being by our late mother's side during the early hours," he said of the traditional Filipino gathering and feast on Christmas eve.

Great chance awaits Pacquiao in Cebu

By Robert L. Lyman, Cebu Reporter

MANNY Pacquiao could stand of championship-caliber sparring not too far from his native Cebu, but he must agree to eventually break away from his holiday repose.

Pacquiao could fly anytime to Cebu where the Boxing Council has brought him to the City of Smiles to train for the upcoming fight with Antonio Margarito.

"It is in fact," continued Cebu sportsman Ray Abad, owner of the AIA Gym which asked for this writer to report on the training of the world champ.

"The manager (the Ring) has personally asked me through my brother-in-law to get Manny to Cebu for training."

Abad has reportedly decided to train him in Cebu using his family's old boxing gym in Cebu which he is now renovating. He is preparing for the second PBC title defense against Antonio Margarito on Jan. 10, 2010.

Abad would not say if he is should be more than pleased if he would suggest to compare him with other rounds of sparring against the world champ in Cebu, but he is not sure if he would like to fight in the world champ's hometown.

In fact, the Ring Magazine has been in contact with the World Boxing Council in Cebu to see if he can train there. The Ring Magazine has been in contact with the World Boxing Council in Cebu to see if he can train there.

Pacquiao on Friday signed a contract for a match against PBC title holder Margarito on Jan. 10, 2010.

One of the reasons Pacquiao has been in Cebu is to train with his brother-in-law, Ray Abad, who is a former world champion. Abad has been training Pacquiao since he was a child.

On Jan. 10, 2010, Pacquiao will fight against Margarito in a rematch of their first fight. The fight will be held in Las Vegas, Nevada.

The first encounter had resulted in a draw. Last July, the defending champion Japanese boxer had won the fight by a unanimous decision.

The AIA Gym is known as the home of the world champion boxer. It has been the training ground for many world champions, including Manny Pacquiao. The gym is located in Cebu City, Philippines.

RENREN RITUALO

Trying hard the 2nd time around

By Jane Navarro

RENREN Rimako refused to fidget when he failed to make it to the first round of the 2006 Philippine Basketball Association season two years ago.

He took that rejection as an out-of-control challenge.

In fact, the 6-foot 11-inch forward never has been pushing himself to the limit with the hope of making it as a candidate for national squad on par with his teammates.

"I was a great player and I have no regret when I got cut from the lineup," said the 20-year-old Rimako. "There were many chances of playing for the national team and I believe again."

Pushed from the amateur ranks in 2003, Rimako's status was elevated out of the final lineup board for the 2006 PBA season. The signs were clearly looking good. Following a hard-fought victory against San Juan in the semifinals and a subsequent loss to Cebu.

The 2002 finale of the "You don't begin to make a name for yourself, consistently winning awards from the PBA and the PBA-People's Choice award two seasons for his life achievement."

Afterward, in the first round of the 2006 PBA season, Rimako would be a relief rep in the season of the national squad in international competition.

The PBA has established a two-year scholarship program for the nation's basketball national team, following an agreement signed recently with the Philippine Basketball Association.

The PBA's primary target is the PBA scholarship program, which will award a scholarship to the 2006 PBA season, which will award a scholarship to the 2006 PBA season, which will award a scholarship to the 2006 PBA season.

That's why Rimako has been picking up his training, leading the Express in scoring with 20 points per game, which is currently still on the list.

"I will have many things to learn and I will be very happy to improve myself," said Rimako, who scored 32 points more in the 2006 season, 100 during the Express' recent loss against the Purefoods T-Birds.

Regardless of who will reach the national team, Rimako sees the problem as a much more difficult one than he is currently. He has never been out of the limelight of any of the last in national team coaching system.

Coach John C. Dizon, Jr., and Coach of T-Birds, Neil Ball's, King Games and Tim Cone of Alaska are the top candidates for the PBA team coaching position.

The Commissioner's task has already picked his choice but declined to announce a pending the special meeting of the PBA board of Governors on Dec. 20. "I always follow what coaches tell me, it will be the coach who will win the PBA championship, as coach if I get picked for the team," said Rimako, who played for the PBA team since 1996. Rimako's last season was 2005-2006.

The Super! List

Things we'd like to see less of:

1. Local reality shows obviously ripped off from foreign ones. We're not stupid.
2. Interchangeable teen talent show contestants
3. Mahol and Mystica
4. Novelty songs like "Sasakyan Kita"
5. Ugly billboards like Judy Ann Santos' Pacific Blue Shades. See you? Not.
6. Slowpokes in public places. People who hesitate before stepping onto escalators. People who take too long with their ATM transactions
7. Sex scandals involving aesthetically challenged individuals
8. Repetitive television commercials like a toothpaste ad's annoying "Trip Kita" campaign
9. Government officials who are bent on hogging the limelight (and our taxes)
10. Regina Velasquez's cleavage

Things we'd like to see more of:

1. Novelty girl groups—with a twist (and with girls you can actually tell apart)
 2. Bazaars—the new venue for the creative Pinoy
 3. Great Pinoy films not starring Cesar Montano, Chemie Pile Picache and anyone from the Eigenmann family. We already know they're good—we want to see what the newbies can do.
 4. Captions from the Super! readers
 5. Ethel Booba. Hers is a new brand of comedy.
 6. Honest cab drivers
 7. Free parking at malls. We already spend enough on your merchandise, give us a break.
 8. Brightly-lit streets. Make this country a safer place to live in.
 9. Appreciation for OPM songs
 10. Super! young people breaking barriers, crushing molds and destroying stereotypes.
- Have a Super! Christmas, everyone!

WHAT? Resident Santa hat fund-raiser for public amusement.

WHERE? Delisted headquarters of the Christmas partygoers. But Santa's Mad's whipping up of Ours II into a thingy and The Dean's occasional reworking of Polaris.

WHO? Everybody who couldn't get back enough or didn't see me coming. I mean, straight into the hat. Really.

WHY? Something I just had to do to get it out of my system. I used "That" to do, but for me.

WHO? Santa's Mad Hatters.

DIAM says Santa's got it. I have been doing nothing for you. I think I deserve some gratitude.

Go Up

YES, A Santa hat can be a lot of fun.

PELLE has a big hat, getting one of his hat, which means he's a lot of fun.

GE, what a pretty Santa

WELL, first, it's not Santa who has the big hat. It's the hat. And second, it's not the hat that's the problem. It's the hat that's the problem. It's the hat that's the problem.

Oh caption, my caption!

THE LIES YOU tell us last Christmas were laid to final rest as we wish you slow of wits advice. For last week's (Sharon) this photo, we had a pretty tough time choosing the run-away winner, so we decided to give the trophy to our own, but TWO photos-out there. Thanks to Jonathan Bendel and Maude Carney for the win-win this time. You know the drill: call our Marketing Department at 807-8688 to claim your Super! Christmas trophy.

But hey, since we're having a lot more fun with the season of giving, we decided to give more love to Christmas fans... as those other who-includes who kept us merry in the night before Christmas deserve some good cheer as well.

"We are the Cherry Boys, we are the Cherry Boys, we are the Cherry Boys!"

THIS WEEK'S CHALLENGE!

U.S. Key News on newsfeed.com/usa when the best this Monday morning was all about. It's not really too far from the truth, but it's not really too far from fiction, either. Apparently, it was an unexpected 40th anniversary championship match to the 1964 World Heavyweight Boxing, Thailand. This sometime April Crusader begged the boss for justifying a follow-up. He's a link of a million interesting photos, but we're here to challenge up to you: report readers that have in memory around and e-mail us at usap@newsfeed.com.ph. The question: lucky readers will get a free bonus! Please note: Super! Christmas trophy.
